are two of the women on the board of the Homeopathic Hospital whose free dispensary is one of the philanthropic works which claim the attention and zeal of the ladies of the Northford Guild.

For unadorned fun, the County Fair, which will be one of the chief attractions of the Friendship fete, gives promise of unqualified success.

It will be for the benefit of the George Washington University Hospital, and will be under the charge of the board of lady managers.

Every fun-provoking feature that the imagination can conceive has been planned and will be carried out, according to all the regulations of an old-time, genuine county fair.

Perhaps the greatest attraction, at least the one that will create as much interest as any, will be the animal show, to be located by Ringling Brothers, the circus men. Poultry and birds will also be there, a collection having been loaned by Schmidt.

Of course the thirty man and the shooting gallery will not be overlooked, neither will the fortune-telling booth nor the gypsy strollers.

Coffee and apple cake will tempt the visitor to the German booth, and the Japanese rolling game will amuse the strenuously inclined.

Master Robert Bell's "Juvenile Shakespeare Company" assisted by the George Washington Quartet and Fencing club, has planned an elaborate programme to please the amusement seeker.

Of course, ice cream and cake, with sandwiches and lemonade, will be plentiful, to say nothing of popcorn and peanuts, and in fact, everything typical of a county fair.

The women who are enthusiastically working for the success of this feature of the great open-air garden show are:

Mrs. Charles J. Bell, Mrs. Adair, Mrs. Yarnall, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. George Brown, Miss Boyce, Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Shute, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Culp, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Donahoe, Mrs. Frazier, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Gumsky, Mrs. Harlan, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Hodgkins, Mrs. Holcomb, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hall Lewis, Mrs. McKay, Mrs. E. McKinnis, Mrs. McKinnis, Mrs. McKinnis, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. P. W. Pratt, Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Schenck, Mrs. Sibley, Mrs. Shippey, Mrs. Spaulding, Mrs. Sander Taylor, Mrs. M. F. Thompson, Mrs. Tinsbridge, Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Bates Ward, Mrs. D. T. Ward, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Stowell, assisted by a number of debutantes.

One of the charities to be represented will be the Convent of the Perpetual Adoration, on V street, which will appeal particularly to the Roman Catholics, being one of the church's most deserving charities.

The fire drill, under the immediate supervision of Fire Chief Bell, will include an exhibition of regular fire service, the raising of ladders, and the rescue of lives by the use of nets and pomper ladders from a building thirty-five feet high.

The firemen will also be called upon to extinguish a temporary two-story frame structure, which will be filled with combustible material and fired.

The apparatus will consist of a chemical engine and hose wagon, one thirty-foot steam fire engine, and one six-foot aerial hook and ladder truck, under command of Capt. O'Connor and C. F. Beers, Truck Company No. 4.

Among the attractions, one of the most enjoyable will be the Japanese wedding, to be given by the young people of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Columbia Heights, for the benefit of the public playgrounds.

The entertainment is under the direction of Mrs. N. D. Drexel, and the rector of St. Stephen's, Rev. George F. Dudley, has charge of the music. As nearly as possible, the customs of Japan are followed in the wedding ceremony, and the incidental music is "Japanese" in character.

The musical numbers are as follows:

Chorus ("Maid"), "Come a Train of Little Lilies," the bridesmaids.

Tris ("Maid"), "Three Little Maids," Misses Louise Taylor, Alice Barnes, and Beale Jolly.

Japanese song and dance, Misses Minnie Saxton and Elizabeth Fomey.

Solo, "Mimosa Sun," Miss Theresa Drexel.

Solo, "Japanese Lullaby," Miss Anna Hagel.

Solo ("San Toy"), "Rhoda and Paget," Miss Alice Barnes.

Solo ("San Toy"), "Six Little Wives," Mr. Henry Tallmadge.

Tris ("Maid"), "Koko, Pitti Sing, and Pook Bah," Mrs. Wesley Peckham, Miss Alice Barnes, and Mr. Henry Tallmadge.

The bridal party includes Miss Edna Saunders and Mr. Preston Berry, bride and groom; Mr. Tallmadge and Miss Hood, parents of the groom; Mr. Dick Edmonds and Miss Dolly Loud, parents of the bride; Go-between, Miss Theresa Drexel, and the bridesmaids, Misses Josephine Hartford, Virginia Berry, Elsie Lower, Miss Marjorie Traynor, Miss Clara Beall.

The patronesses are Viscountess Aoki, Mme. Jussereand, Mrs. Bryce, Mrs. Nichols.

Mr. George A. Bentley will also give his clever travesty on "The Music Master," assisted by Miss Edith Luckett and Mr. Arthur H. Delbert. Little Miss Elizabeth Forney will give some exhibitions of her marvelous toe dancing, having for the occasion an entirely new and original toe ballet.

A berry of attractive young girls from the Fairmont Seminary will act as ushers, ticket sellers, and even "barkers," and pretty programmes, which can be carried away as souvenirs, will be given at each performance.

An esthetic and artistic lottery will be run in the shape of a beautiful display of Dutch tulips.

A large tent will shelter the rare blooms, which will be specimens of variegated tulips, showing yellow, red, pink, and white, and striped varieties. An immense plot will be covered with the flowers, the finest of their kind ever seen in Washington. They will be included in a wire fence to shield them from the curious gaze of the spectators. The flowers will not only be on exhibition, but will be for sale, a purchaser being allowed to carry away as many as he chooses.

That every one will choose many is expected, for never since the now famous Dutchman grew the perfect tulip, have such rare specimens of these pretty blossoms been seen, and the flower lover will have the chance of his lifetime to secure a "thing of beauty, if not a joy forever." But where does the lottery pot come in, does the reader ask? Well, all that can be said on that score is, "Come and see."

The ladies of the Northford Guild will be the "Maidens of the Northford," of whom may be asked "How does your garden grow?" Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins, Mrs. Thomas McDonald, and Mrs. Hough are some of those interested. Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins and Mrs. James McMillan.

las Anderson, Mrs. Oscar Straus, Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Larz Anderson, Miss Boardman, Mrs. McFarland, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. A. C. Barney, Mrs. Tuckerman, Miss Oliver, Mrs. Newberry, Mrs. Hobson, Mrs. Cooley, and Miss Constance Satterlee.

Of course, there will be the usual garden party affairs, besides all the feature shows, flower booths, tea gardens, a millinery shop, presided over by some of the Capital's most attractive maids and matrons; a Punch and Judy show, and every sort of entertainment one can desire. When it is taken into account, also, that without a single booth or side show the garden and lawn at Friendship are quite worth the price of admission, there should be no question about going.

The quaint garden, whose box hedges, which surround the house, is filled with antique stone benches and bits of statuary gathered from some old Italian garden, which are so beautiful in themselves that they are worth the trip to see.

On the piazza in front of the rambling mansion will be tea tables, from which the most charming and gracious of hostesses will dispense cake and tea, ice cream, and sandwiches, which will be served by Washington's most attractive girls, all clad in their prettiest and smartest frocks.

And if one does not like tea and cake, there will be cigarettes sold by other equally charming debutantes.

An interesting amateur performance will be given next Wednesday by some of the younger members of the diplomatic corps, complimentary to the Mexican Ambassador and Mr. Cret.

There will be two plays, the well-known English drama, "David Garrick," and a one-act Spanish farce, "El Novio de Dona Inez," or "Don Inez Sweetheart," by Javier de Burgos.

Gonzalo will be taken by Mr. Albert Godoy, a son of the Mexican Minister to Cuba, now attached to the Mexican Embassy here; Brigida, his wife, will be represented by Mile. Ana Carbo, a daughter of the Minister from Ecuador; Inez, their daughter, will be Mile. Maria Carbo, another daughter of the Minister from Ecuador; Juanita, her sweetheart, will be Mr. Francisco Godoy, and Pascuala, a maid, will be taken by Miss Mary Taylor.

In "David Garrick" the young daughter of the Mexican Minister to Cuba, Mile. Mercedes Godoy, who made her debut here two winters ago, will enact the part of Araminta Browne, Ada, the leading lady, will be Miss Mary Kolbe, David Garrick, will be represented by M. Albert Godoy, with his brother, M. Francisco Godoy, as "Squire Chivy," and still another son of the Mexican Minister, M. George Godoy, will be Thomas, a servant.

In the reception committee will be Mile. Maria Calvo, daughter of the Costa Rican Minister, Mile. Elena Calderon, daughter of the Bolivian Minister; Mile. Maria Carbo, daughter of the Minister from Ecuador; Juanita, her sweetheart, will be Mr. Francisco Godoy, and Pascuala, a maid, will be taken by Miss Mary Taylor.

Baron Moncheur, the Belgian Minister, spent yesterday in Baltimore with the Baroness Moncheur, who is taking the rest cure at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He will leave to-day for Charleston, S. C., where he will remain for ten days or so on business.

Mr. John A. Barrett, who has been visiting in Massachusetts, will return to Washington to-day.

Mrs. John Stevens, with her small son, Jean, has gone to New York to meet Mr. Stevens. They will return here next Thursday.

Mrs. C. S. Guthrie has closed her apartment at the Connecticut for the summer. After some weeks in New York, she will go to her summer home at New London.

Miss Martha Cameron, who has been traveling in California with Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt in their private car, has returned here. Mrs. Cameron met her in New York and they returned just in time for Miss Cameron to attend the ball given by Baron Ambrosy and Baron Haymerle, of the Austrian Embassy.

Mrs. Humphrey, wife of Gen. Charles F. Humphrey, has gone to Old Kent fort.

The Misses Wise, of Baltimore, are visiting the Misses Mullen, in Connecticut avenue, having come over for the ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson Jewett have, by the way, left their house and gone to their place on the Hudson for some weeks, and will later go abroad to travel for a year or so. In the meantime the Postmaster General and Mrs. George von L. Meyer will move into the house, which they will make their home for a year or so, and where they can entertain on a very extensive scale than in the Vanderbilts' house in New Hampshire avenue, where they now are located. At present Mrs. Meyer and her daughters are at the Virginia Hot Springs on account of the ill health of one of the young ladies.

An interested group of friends and spectators met yesterday afternoon to see the competition at the Fencers' Club, in H street, when some of the young women of the club took part in the bouts.

They fenced with much skill and grace, justifying the applause extended by the audience of ladies. As the bouts were only between the young women of the club, no men, except masters and umpires, were allowed to witness them, with the exception of one old gentleman, who, as a respected father figure, was allowed to enter.

The Georgetown University Crew gave a dance last night at the Arlington Hotel. The members of the Virginia baseball team were the guests of the crew, as they played against Georgetown yesterday afternoon.

The ballroom at the Arlington was decorated for the occasion with palms and the Georgetown colors, and was a bright and fitting setting for the gathering of young men and women who danced away the hours between 8 and 12.

The hostesses who welcomed the guests were Mrs. Thomas H. Carter, Mrs. Maurice Francis Eagen, Mrs. George Lloyd Magruder, and Mrs. Harry Claiborne.

The arrangements for the dance were in the hands of Mr. John M. Stuart and a committee from the various schools of the university.

The wedding of Miss Catherine Clements and Mr. Warren M. Mitchell will take place on the evening of May 11, in the home of the bride's parents. Only the immediate families and a few young friends of the bride and groom will be present at the ceremony, after which the young couple will leave on their wedding trip.

Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts and her daughters, Miss Margaret Shonts and Miss Theodora Shonts, will leave Washington early this week for New York, to complete their plans for the summer. They will probably sail for Europe shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, the former the newly appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and former governor of Porto Rico, were the guests of Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, Thursday afternoon, at a complimentary tea given to them at Woodley, the suburban home of Senator and Mrs. Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins and family have taken the place for the spring months, but will go later to their own summer home, "By-the-Way," at Willamstown, Mass. Senator and Mrs. Newlands are abroad.

Senator and Mrs. Martin, of Virginia, have returned from their trip to Egypt and Italy. Mrs. Martin's health is much improved.

given by the young men of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy for their countrymen, officers on the Austro-Hungarian ships at Hampton Roads.

Gen. James A. Buchanan has cards out for an entertainment complimentary to the Controller of the Currency and Mrs. William Barrett Hildgely, May 18.

Some of the young officers who came up from Jamestown to Washington the past week are still in town. Among them are the young men of the British navy, who formed a merry party at luncheon at the Shoreham yesterday.

They seemed much interested in the various things that have been printed about them in the papers here, and spoke very highly of some of the papers.

Though some say the English are rather slow to see the point of a joke, these young men are certainly not slow in picking up American slang, as was evidenced by the remark of one who glibly suggested handing out a "lemon" to some one.

This week, more foreign visitors will be "in our midst," as the Argentine Minister, Senor Portela, has received word that the Argentine vessels will arrive in Washington to-morrow. When Senor Portela has conferred with the commander, he will decide upon some entertainment to be given in his honor.

Among other privileges given the young visiting officers are cards to the Chevy Chase Club, and they are expected to be of the gathering of fashionable persons who will attend the clubhouse to-day, where luncheons and dinners, to say nothing of interesting little tea parties, will be in order.

Not only does the clubhouse hold its own as a rendezvous for society, but society is extending its habitations to the outskirts of the club grounds.

Gen. and Mrs. Corbin are building a home out at Chevy Chase. It is at the intersection of Rock Creek Ford road and the Broad Branch road, and northeast of the circle. It will be a typical country house, comfortable and roomy, and will be completed this next fall.

Speaking of houses, the Horstmann home in Rhode Island avenue has been sold, and Mrs. Bolt is living at an apartment at Stoneleigh Court and has been all winter, finding the house rather too large for just her and Mr. Bolt. Her sister, Mrs. Sidney Small, of Toronto, is now visiting here.

Former Representative Kirk Porter, who when he occupied Mrs. Don Cameron's house in Lafayette square, will commence soon extensive repairs on the Tuckermans' house in I street, which he bought this past fall for the largest sum ever paid for a residence in Washington. The price was $250,000.

Another member of Washington's social set from Pennsylvania, who has recently been buying property here, is Mr. Joseph E. Thrupp, who has bought the lots adjoining his place in Twentieth street. With these he will enlarge his garden, deferring building on them until later.

leut. Commander Wood, adj. to Admiral Dewey, has recently purchased the property at 163 Twenty-second street, adjoining the house recently sold to Commander J. J. Knapp.

Just opposite these houses at the corner of Twenty-second and R streets is the lot recently bought by George W. Keaney, where he will erect a handsome residence, so that this section will be a little army and navy reservation almost in itself, like Twenty-first street, which is a very popular street with the army people. Maj. Wilbur E. Wilder has recently leased the house at 142 Twenty-first street, and joined the little colony of army people already in that neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson Jewett have, by the way, left their house and gone to their place on the Hudson for some weeks, and will later go abroad to travel for a year or so. In the meantime the Postmaster General and Mrs. George von L. Meyer will move into the house, which they will make their home for a year or so, and where they can entertain on a very extensive scale than in the Vanderbilts' house in New Hampshire avenue, where they now are located.
